
From the President's Desk

Dear Members,

Taking care of employees on a daily basis is what we do, and we do it well. But who takes care of the caregivers, like yourself? My guess is that job falls back to you. We teach classes on nutrition and stress management but how often do we follow our own advice? As I think back to the words of Jack L. Groppel, PhD, our opening speaker for the 2013 AAOHN conference, much depends upon how we interpret our thoughts. "We must use our limited self-discipline to build new positive rituals that support full engagement in the things that really matter." The thing that really matters is YOU!

You are very important. You are important to your family, your friends, your colleagues, and your employees. And taking care of yourself should be one of your top priorities. I know that we all get wrapped up with daily demands, but our health and well-being should also be bubbling to the top of that list, demanding our attention. I have learned over the years that our bodies always win. We can attempt to ignore signals that our bodies are sending to us but eventually, something happens and we end up giving the necessary attention that our body was seeking.

With summer here, there are so many more opportunities to add increased activity to our daily routines. Take a 10-minute walk before you start your day at work or after eating lunch; or, when those afternoon blahs hit, stand up and go for a walk! Perhaps you could implement the 2013 National Bike Challenge at your worksite. This challenge is being promoted by ANA, in addition to AAOHN, as another way to promote fitness and fun as you, your employees, and your family pedal their way to better health. You can join as an individual or as a team…just join! The challenge is open to anyone who lives in the United States or works for a company with US employees. You also have the opportunity to connect with other online riders and win prizes. Every time you jump on your bike, the miles count. Visit this page for more information and to sign up.

So promise me that you will start taking better care of yourself because you are very important! Here is wishing you a safe and fun-filled summer season with lots of happy memories!

AAOHN Foundation Corner

Dear Members,

One critical aspect of fundraising is timing—knowing when to begin the conversation with a potential donor and when to actually ask for the funds. As discussed in previous Foundation Corners, fundraising is about building relationships with potential sponsors, and that takes time. It is also important to find out when the donor's budget cycle might be. For many corporate sponsors, budgeting occurs in the summer or early fall for the following calendar year. So, for example, to secure funds for 2014, now is the time to be discussing donations so that any contributions can be vetted internally through the sponsor's financial process.

AAOHN Foundation Grants

Are you interested in conducting research in the field of occupational and environmental health? Take advantage of the funding opportunities available to new principal investigators to conduct research on occupational and environmental health issues.

There are two grants available to new principal investigators: one $3,000 grant funded by Kelly Services, and one $3,000 grant funded by Medique Products.

The grant sponsored by Kelly Services will fund a research project focused on OHN Staffing. The ideal proposal would be to research current occupational health nursing staffing ratios for various healthcare professionals (LPNs, RNs, and NPs in a variety of business/clinic models) in a variety of occupation health settings. Research should support the evidence that justifies the ratio by setting and the estimated return on investment. For this project, collaboration with AAOHN may be available (i.e., a small team of volunteers to provide feedback, potential use of AAOHN survey technology, and the ability to survey AAOHN members).

The Medique Products-sponsored grant will fund a research project focused on one of the identified AAOHN research priorities (as listed in the grant packet). For example:

- The nature and effects of stress and workplace stressors on worker health
- Health effects resulting from the interaction between aging and workplace hazards
- Effectiveness of health promotion nursing intervention strategies
- Evaluation of critical pathways to effectively improve worker health and safety and to enhance maximum recovery and safe return to work.

For more information regarding funding opportunities, please download the AAOHN Foundation 2013 Grants Packet, or e-mail aaohngov@dancyamc.com.

The deadline to apply for AAOHN Foundation Grants is July 1, 2013.

AAOHN Chapter Membership Campaign Introduced by "The King"

If you attended the Business Meeting at the AAOHN 2013 National Conference in Las Vegas, you know that Elvis was in the building! He came to the conference to deliver a very important message about the AAOHN Chapter Membership Campaign that is now underway. Elvis' performance included these special lyrics, which helped energize the crowd:

Well it's one for the money,
Two for the show,
Three to get ready,
Now watch us grow!

The fun and the momentum will continue to build throughout this year as chapters across the nation work to build their ranks and share the value of AAOHN membership with a greater number of professionals. All the details, including a summary of prizes, are currently posted on the AAOHN home page at www.aaohn.org.

AAOHN Food Drive

The AAOHN Marketing Committee helped coordinate a food drive in April in conjunction with the national conference in Las Vegas. The concept of a local activity during the national conference was thought to be an opportunity to highlight Occupational Health Nurses and provide an opportunity to help the host city of the conference.

A food drive to help a busy food pantry in Las Vegas seemed an appropriate gesture and the committee was counting on the generosity and kindness of nurses to help others in need. Donations totaling $980 in cash and 60 pounds of non-perishable food items were delivered to Three Square Food Bank in Las Vegas. The majority of the cash donations were thanks to a generous gesture from the Arkansas state chapter in the amount of $500. The committee anticipated a national response from members, regardless of whether they were attending the conference. The food drive outcomes are still being evaluated by the committee. Discussion is underway to plan a similar community outreach activity for the AAOHN 2014 National Conference in Dallas.

Although Las Vegas was particularly hard-hit by the Great Recession of 2008, and unemployment there is still at 20 percent, hunger problems are actually national in scope and deeply disturbing. Here are some of the details learned while helping to organize the Las Vegas food drive:

The hunger problem in America is increasing at an alarming rate.

The number of people experiencing food insecurity has increased from 35 million to 50 million in the last few years. Food insecurity is defined as being unsure about how a person will obtain the next meal.

Fifty percent of all children in the United States currently receive some sort of food assistance.

Hunger is a function of poverty and limited access to healthy food. The hunger problem is not caused by a lack of food.

Hunger is linked to a variety of health problems. Ironically, obesity is associated with the hunger problem because people experiencing poverty eat more processed foods rather than healthy foods.

The state of Mississippi has the highest rate of food insecurity and the highest incidence of obesity.

The problem of hunger is a valid issue for Occupational Health Nurses. Working people are living in families that struggle with hunger issues. For example, the food stamp program called Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, or "SNAP," has a rate of 80 percent of the participating families that have at least one parent working. Seventy-five percent of SNAP families have one parent that works full time. SNAP participation is at an all-time high. Last January, the United States Department of Agriculture reported that 15.7 percent of the United States population receives SNAP benefits. The program's growth trend is obvious. SNAP participation expanded 9.2 percent during the period of January 2011 to January 2013.

The influence of hunger on worker safety is a hypothesis worthy of research for Occupational Health Nurses. It stands to reason that employees experiencing food insecurity and dealing with hunger issues at home are at higher risk of occupational injury.

An excellent documentary was recently released to highlight the hunger problem in the United States. The documentary is called "A Place at the Table." It is worth your time to Google the title and watch the 2-minute movie trailer. The documentary provides a better understanding of hunger in the United States and offers suggestions for addressing the problem.

Join AAOHN in the National Bike Challenge

AAOHN invites you to join occupational and environmental health nurses, along with other nursing colleagues, to participate in the ANA-sponsored National Bike Challenge. You can join the Challenge as part of Team AAOHN. ANA has challenged AAOHN to beat them. We need you to register and participate!

The National Bike Challenge, which rolls from May 1 to September 30, is a health and wellness initiative that encourages cycling for transportation and recreation. It's a fun, free, and interactive way to improve your fitness, build team camaraderie, and create healthy competition among workplaces and organizations. And you can even win real prizes, not to mention the prize of better health!

Join the Challenge at: www.nationalbikechallenge.org. Click the "Join" button and become a new user, or join via your Facebook profile. You now have the chance to list yourself or your team. Make sure to write it in exactly as AAOHN, so that you will be counted with us!

You do not have to be an advanced cyclist to participate; all skill levels can be a part of the Challenge. Every time you ride over the five months, you log your participation and mileage on the Challenge website.

The Challenge has many great prizes, and each month, prizes will be given away to reward Challenge participants. The more you bike, the better your chance of winning (and the better the prizes) will be! Click here to view the prize list.

AAOHN's participation is in affiliation with the American Nurses Association (ANA), which organizes National Nurses Week and encourages nurses to become a HealthyNurse™ role model. A HealthyNurse™ is a nurse who takes care of his or her personal health, safety, and wellness and lives life to the fullest capacity—physically, mentally, spiritually, and professionally. A HealthyNurse™ is a better role model, educator, and advocate—personally, for the family, for the community, for the work environment, and for the patient.

AAOHN Releases 2013 Compensation & Benefits Survey Report

As the leading advocate for occupational health nursing, AAOHN is committed to enhancing career opportunities for nurses who specialize in occupational and environmental health.

From professional standards of practice to continuing education and networking opportunities, AAOHN provides valuable resources to members year-round. Periodically, AAOHN also conducts surveys to gather information related to OHN compensation and benefits. Since the last of these surveys was completed in 2006, much has changed in the economic climate and in healthcare in general. So, earlier this year, AAOHN enlisted the services of Kerr and Downs, an external research firm, to conduct a fresh survey of the OHN population.

Survey Report Free for AAOHN Members

Comprehensive results of the compensation and benefits survey are now available at www.aaohn.org.

As an added benefit to AAOHN members, the survey report is available free of charge. Members simply follow the link above and log in to www.aaohn.org to gain access to the report. This is a significant change from the 2006 report, when members were charged $40 to obtain the results of the study.

The report will be offered on a fee basis to non-members and employers.

About the Study

The 2013 AAOHN Compensation and Benefits Study surveyed a population of nurses identified collaboratively by AAOHN, ABOHN, and AOHP. The survey was conducted by e-mail and the response rate was 27 percent. The complete report includes an executive summary and detailed information regarding:

- Salary
  - Member salary by member characteristics
  - Changes in average salary
  - Changes in median salary
- Determinants of salary
- Benefits
  - Benefit cross-tabulations
  - Job position and responsibilities
  - Profile of responders

We hope you find this report helpful.

The 2013 Workers' Compensation Benchmarking Survey

Calling all Workers' Compensation Claims Leaders—Managers, Directors, and Executive-Level—to respond to a 20-minute survey.

Survey Link: Click here.

Study Overview:
The purpose is to provide Claims Leaders with a meaningful operational assessment. While there are many studies published about the state of the workers' compensation industry, cost drivers, claim trends, workforce demographics, jurisdictional comparisons and the like, less is reported about how claims organizations address day-to-day operational challenges. In response to this need, the 2013 Workers' Compensation Benchmarking Study aims to provide meaningful, actionable data for claims executives to help them:

- Pinpoint outliers in their operations
- Advocate for resources in support-challenged areas
- Validate existing strategies

ACOEM Conference Update

The American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine (ACOEM) recently held their annual meeting. At this meeting, Dr. Melissa Bean presented a resolution to the House of Delegates that an ACOEM Guidance Document be created and published on model protocols for Practice Agreements or Delegation Agreements. These are documents that Nurse Practitioners (NP) and Physician Assistants (PA) may have to use in their practices, depending on the requirements of the state in which they practice.

The argument against this proposal was presented more from a PA perspective but included many points common to both NPs and PAs. These points included variation in practice requirements by state licensing boards, the wide variety of occupational medicine practices, and the varied needs of each practice, to name a few. In the end, the resolution was defeated with the hope that it is not raised again next year.
